Challenge

Colleges of Excellence, working with the Saudi Ministry of Labor has taken a lead role in reforming TVET education in Saudi Arabia, including establishing many new further education colleges.

Colleges of Excellence came to City & Guilds and AlphaPlus with a request to develop a flagship induction programme for young people to access employment in healthcare settings.

Solution

We worked with the Colleges of Excellence team to specify and develop a high quality programme of learning covering:

- Medical Terminology,
- Ethics and Customer Services for Health Care Providers
- Quality and Patient Safety
- Employability Skills for the Health Care Sector

Our work involved development of:

- Qualification & Curriculum Specifications
- Learning Outcomes
- Scheme of Work
- Lesson Plans for teachers
- Media rich slide packs for teachers to use in lessons
- A Workbook and worksheets for students
- Multiple Choice knowledge tests
- Practical skills tests

We based this programme on international good practice, but tailored the content to meet Islamic values and be compatible with working practices in Saudi Arabia's healthcare systems.

We also made sure that the learning materials (delivered in English) were suitable for learners who may have low levels of English language skill (CEFR A2).

From start to finish, we delivered the whole programme in under 3 months, and the learning programme is now in use successfully in Saudi Arabia.
